Dear David,

Sorry I've not been able to get back to you sooner on this.

I accept that at the end of the day this is coming from your client and in the main I do not have an issue with what is being said. My only slight worry is the reference for the LEA to make reference to 'consider green belt land release as an inevitable consequence of an economic development strategy'. I'm not sure that from our point of view we would necessarily be able to say at this stage that this was inevitable or not until we know the precise nature of the strategy.

It might also set hares running if someone picks up on this (Cllrs or a residents association). The inference that they might draw from this is that Kempton Park will have housing on it come what may. I'm not entirely convinced that this will help in terms of the overall way we want to approach this. I would suggest that you might want to 'soften' the language a little.

I'm around on Monday if you want to chat through

Regards
